This document, when executed by the below identified License signature, constitutes a License by Parallax to copy, distribute and modify our Parallax SX-Key software which contains the graphical user interface (GUI) and the assembler. The GUI software contains the protocol to communicate with the Parallax SX-Key for program/debug functions. To modify the GUI software, engineers under this License will need Delphi and perhaps Turbo Assembler. This License does not include rights to the SX-Key firmware or hardware, which is not being open-sourced.

This License is issued without compensation to Parallax to allow an improved SX-Key software interface to be developed, as well as possible support for other platforms.
